

McDaniel Family Farm House

was originally built in 1874 and was expanded over the years. Four generations of the McDaniel family lived in this home. They were self-sufficient, which means they grew or made almost everything they needed to live right there on the farm. The house did not have electricity until the 1950s.