JANUARY 2018

Gwinnett's 2018 budget focuses on safety, quality of life for residents

The Gwinnett County 2018 budget includes several new police positions, more ambulance crews, parks improvements, and other projects to benefit residents and make Gwinnett an attractive place to live and do business.

Totaling about $1.67 billion, the budget consists of about $1.28 billion in operating and about $390 million for capital improvements, including SPLOST-funded projects. The budget reflects specific priorities set by the Board of Commissioners last spring as well as the recommendations of a seven-member committee made of citizen volunteers.

The budget sets aside money for 65 new police officers, two additional 24/7 ambulance crews and a ladder truck crew, construction of a new Bay Creek Police Precinct, and libraries, parks, and senior services. Funding for an expansion of the civic center, a small business resource center, and more planning and development staff falls under the "strong and vibrant local economy" priority. The global water innovation center and pay-for-performance increases to maintain a quality workforce fall under the "smart and sustainable government" priority.

Gwinnett County, Georgia Tech to assess effects of septic systems on Lake Lanier

The Department of Water Resources and Georgia Tech Research Corporation are partnering to evaluate the impact of septic systems on Lake Lanier. The project will entail sampling and monitoring groundwater quality and flow, lake water, and lake sediment in developed and undeveloped areas of the lake, a source of recreation and drinking water for Gwinnett County and metro Atlanta. Septic tanks can be a source of nutrients in groundwater. The research will help Gwinnett assess which strategies may help reduce nutrient loads and help predict lake response to remedial actions.

County converts football field at Mountain Park Park to synthetic turf

The football field at Mountain Park Park will be renovated with a 100,000 square-foot synthetic turf field for football, soccer, and lacrosse. In addition, the old field and press box, a baseball backstop, and dugouts will be replaced with a new press box, lighting, fencing, and goals. The synthetic turf means the fields won't have to be closed to let the grass recover, allowing more playing time. Completion of the SPLOST-funded upgrade is scheduled for July.

Mountain Park Park covers 44 acres southeast of Lilburn and features baseball/softball fields, tennis courts, a skate complex and sand volleyball court, plus playgrounds, a pavilion, restrooms, and trails.

PUBLIC SAFETY

Make an emergency kit for your vehicle

January and February are peak times for winter storms, so be prepared before an emergency arises. Weather conditions such as snow and ice may cause you to be trapped in your car for an extended time period. Take these few steps to prepare for a winter emergency in your vehicle:

- Winterize your vehicle and keep your gas tank at least half full to prevent your fuel line from freezing.
- Stock an emergency kit with food and bottled water, a portable cell phone charger, ice scraper, flashlight and batteries, a first aid kit, blankets, jumper cables, and sand or cat litter for traction.
- If you do get stuck on the road, remain in your vehicle where rescuers are most likely to find you.
- Avoid going out on foot unless you can find a safe place to take shelter. Avoid idling for a long time with windows up or in an enclosed space.

PROTECTING OUR RESOURCES

Overbend Trail culvert replacement highlights benefits of stormwater fee

To help pay for projects that protect people from flooding, Gwinnett County assesses an annual stormwater utility fee on each property owner, including residents, government facilities, schools, and businesses. These fees are based on the amount of impervious surface on each parcel.

Across the country, stormwater utility fees are used to replace and upgrade stormwater management systems – including pipes and culverts – to help reduce flooding, fulfill regulatory requirements, and reduce pollution carried to waterways by runoff.

A good example of stormwater fees at work is the culvert replacement project at Overbend Trail, a single-entrance road into a neighborhood near Suwanee. During moderate to heavy rains, Level Creek would routinely cover the road and leave residents stranded or unable to get home. To solve this problem, the Department of Water Resources installed a larger culvert and raised the road.

In Gwinnett, stormwater utility fees will help pay for about $32 million in critical stormwater infrastructure improvements in 2018. The fees allow DWR professionals to better protect water quality, maintain vital stormwater infrastructure, and design solutions for stormwater management to provide the highest level of service to the community.
